Marketing Summit

LOS ANGELES

In February 2019 MuseumNext travels to LA for a one day Marketing Summit that will bring together those shaping the future of museum marketing.

The event will take place at The Line LA, which has recently been named as one of the best designed hotels in the United States.

Our first class venue will be matched by a stellar line up of marketing leaders who will share best practice, future thinking and trends that can't be ignored.

With a great location, fantastic programme and a little winter sun, we expect this to be a popular event with museum marketing teams.

As a sponsor, you'd play an integral role in the event and make connections with marketing leaders from across the United States and further afield.
